

GLE3OR Unit 4: Culminating Activity

Culminating Activity: Drop-In Centre Proposal

Overview

In this unit, the student will create a three-part proposal for a "drop-in" or "community centre" which would meet identified needs of a specific local community. The proposal will consist of three parts: a written proposal, an informational brochure and a personal reflection paper.

Background

Your Culminating Activity is a three part activity, worth 30% of your final mark. Each part is worth 10% of your final mark. In this Culminating Activity, you will develop a proposal for the creation of a drop-in centre for teens and youth. You will apply the skills that you have developed throughout this course and to the situation provided for you.

Part A will be a written summary for your proposed centre.

Part B will be a brochure through which you will describe and promote your centre.

Part C will be a reflection paper.

The town's business council is offering the use of a former fire hall for the youth of your school and community as a teen and youth centre. However, they want to see your "vision" for the hall in a written proposal for its use. The fire hall is now empty, as new facilities have been built to service a greater area. The empty fire hall is close to the school and the town outdoor recreational facilities and park.

You have been asked to participate in the development of this proposal and you have plenty of ideas for a drop-in centre for teens and youth in your community. Tutors, coaches, mentors, job postings, sports, games, community meetings, food drives, spirit rallies, social justice activities, pot luck dinners, fund raising ideas, contest to name the centre...the list goes on and on in your head!

Assignment

Part A: Proposal Summary

You will write a 2-3 page summary, using your own ideas, which will be presented to school administration and the town's business council. Your summary must:

- identify the purpose of the centre;
- identify the centre's prospective clients (people who would use the centre);
- identify and describe the services, classes and activities offered at the centre;
- describe your centre's physical structure, special purpose rooms, offices and any equipment (sports/office) that might be needed for the centre;
- an explanation of how and why such services would meet the needs of the target clientele.

Part B: Brochure

You will design and create a brochure that could be used to promote the centre. Your brochure must include:

- an image that represents the physical structure of the centre;
- contact information: an address, phone and fax number, email and/or website address, a map, hours of operation, five simple and basic rules and any other appropriate details;
- a list and description of the various services, classes, activities etc., that will be available at your centre;

Part C: Reflection

You will write a reflection paper in which you identify how various activities in this course have helped to appreciate how a centre such as the one you are proposing would benefit not only you, but also individuals in your community. You must also provide specific examples that demonstrate an awareness of the personal growth you have experienced during this course.

Your reflection paper should be at least 250 words in length.
